Why do crime victims need their own attorney?

Victims' rights violations can occur by any of the actors in the criminal justice system—the prosecutor, the court, the defendant—and at any time in the criminal justice process, even before the case is scheduled for its first hearing. The only way to be certain that a victim's rights are properly asserted and enforced is if the victim has legal representation of his or her own.

Legal Services for Crime Victims in Arizona (LSCVA) does just that.
